RELIEVE SUFFERING
RESTORE DIGNITY
REVEAL HOPE[™]

Most of us have everything we could possibly need. We do not think twice about things we can easily acquire like clothes, shelter, blankets, and hygiene items. However, in many areas around the world, people live without items we would consider common and essential because they have no choice.

Together with your friends and family, students can partner with Unto® to give suffering people Survival Kits. By setting up a customized Survival Kit fundraising digital campaign for your campus, students can help change people's lives when they provide critical aid in the toughest places on earth — the kits will be personally delivered by our international staff members who will continue serve there.

One of the most simple, powerful, and effective ways you can share kindness is by providing lifesaving aid to relieve suffering, restore dignity, and reveal hope.

REASONS TO START A FUNDRAISING CAMPAIGN WITH UNTO®

- Simple and effective way students can help save lives by providing 26,500 people with essential items
- Innovative way to collect contacts and engage students' interest in a humanitarian organization
- Plug and play digital platform customized for your campus with everything you need
- Service opportunity where students can engage friends
- Easy, interactive activity where a variety of campus clubs and organizations partner together
